

ServiceNow –

Prompt Engineering

(Now Assist /Agentic AI)

Agenda

- What is Prompt Engineering?

- Common Mistakes

- Prompt Types!

- How to Test?

What is Prompt Engineering?

Common Mistakes

1

Vague instructions can lead to misleading outputs

3

Ignoring necessary context can degrade response quality.

2

Overly complex prompts can confuse the model

4

Assuming AI is always right

Prompt Types!

Zero-shot prompting

- Present the model with task or question
- Widely used. Simple & Broad Applicability

Iterative refinement

- Initial output is refined through successive rounds of prompting
- It provides high-quality outputs in tasks requiring precision

* Few-shot or in-context learning

- Few examples or 'shots' that guide the model
- Better inferences, Used in more complex scenarios

Feedback loops

- Real-time feedback operational process
- Adjust its responses based on continuous inputs

Chain-of-thought (COT)

- Breaking down a prompt -simpler, logical steps
- Well suited to complex problem-solving

Prompt chaining

- Sequencing multiple prompts
- Useful in multi-step tasks where each is tied to a single, complex action

Tree-of-thought prompting

- Extension of COT, explore different branches of reasoning
- Useful for multiple plausible solutions or perspectives

* Role-playing

- Interactive applications like chatbots
- Persona or role (such as a support agent)

- Creator Workflows

* - Now Assist / Agentic

How to Test?

Chat GPT

Now Assist

Prompt: Create a ServiceNow script to assign incidents to the right group.

Get the Code Results & Compare

Bad Prompt

- "Write a script to create users."

Questions

- What kind of users?
- What system are we working in?
- What data do we need?

Plugin: "sn_prompt_assist"
Check : Now Assist Skill Kit

Thank You